

To Whom It May Concern:

I highly recommend David Alsh as a candidate for employment. David was employed by The Computer Clearance Centre as the Lead Sales, Admin, Computer Technician and not only did he excel at his job, he always went above and beyond what was requested of him resulting in a professional, streamlined service that never missed a beat. The Computer Clearance Centre specialises in selling refurbished computers and computer repairs. David was responsible for product floor sales, repairing customer computers, point of sale administration and machine imaging.

David is a team player, has an eye for detail, works well under pressure and is capable of completing his duty to a high standard. David has excellent communication skills and has shown to be good at satisfying customers needs. In addition, he is extremely organized, independent, resourceful and likes to contribute ideas to improve the workplace.

David proven at being reliable at working unsupervised on numerous occasion. He is notably flexible with hours and will always come in when needed and leave when there is no work.

David was always quick to volunteer in assisting in areas of company operations and is never afraid to add his constructive opinion on business decisions – such as advice on what tools needed, what imaging software would be best to use, decorations, marketing ideas and even created a custom point of sales program that tallied sales and created profit projections for weeks based on statistics.

David would be a valuable asset for your company and has my highest recommendation. If you have any further questions with regard to his background or qualifications, please do not hesitate to contact me or the store manager Wilford.

Sincerely,
Ihsan Mujdeci
